Rubber Workers Ignore Back To Work Order; 16,000 More Vote To Strike

By United Press

The Army began operation of the strike-bound Diamond Alkali company plant at Painesville, O., as a nation-wide wave of strikes curtailed war production.

President Truman ordered seizure of the Alkali plant after Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson described the strike of 2,000 workers as "one of the most critical from a war standpoint."

The workers, members of the United Mine Workers of America, struck in protest against the company's use of outside contractors for work in the plant.

Additional thousands of soldiers in full battle regalia moved into Chicago today to operate trucks made idle by the walkout of 10,000 operators, demanding more money. The Army already had 1,500 soldiers driving trucks there.

At the same time the War Labor Board ordered 5,500 strikers at the McCormick works of the International Harvester company, Chicago, back to work today. The strike had halted production of farm equipment and war goods.

A WLB back-to-work order to 18,000 Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, Akron, strikers was ignored. Leaders of the United Rubber Workers, CIO, disclaimed any responsibility in the strike, and strikers gave no clear cause for the walkout.

In a separate strike move, 16,000 workers at Akron Firestone Tire and Rubber company voted in favor of a strike. Leaders said the vote had no connection with the Goodyear strike.

Glass Workers Out

Six thousand Pittsburgh Plate glass company employees at Creighton and Ford City, Pa., were on strike for the sixth day. They jumped the gun on a strike planned for tomorrow by 17,000 glass workers in Pennsylvania and Ohio. The national war labor board assumed jurisdiction of contract dispute.

Six hundred workers at the Toledo Acland Stamping company and Mather Spring company—all members of the United Automobile Workers, CIO—continued a strike begun June 7.

A strike of 2,600 United Steelworkers, CIO, over the discharge of one worker, went into its eighth day at the American Rolling Mill company plant, Ashland, Ky., despite a WLB back to work order. Leaders of American Federation (Continued on Page Two)

Russians Will Not Ask Death Of 16 Leaders Of Polish Underground

LONDON, June 20—Moscow announced today that the Soviet prosecution was not asking the death penalty for 16 Polish underground leaders being tried on charges of subversive activity against the Red army.

Maj. Gen. Asansiev, chief prosecutor, said in summing up the Red army's case against the Poles that he would insist they be imprisoned but would not demand the extreme penalty.

An earlier Moscow dispatch said it appeared that several of the Poles would be acquitted or at most get light prison sentences. Word that the death sentence apparently had been excluded came at the outset of the third day of the trial. The testimony was completed and final pleadings were under way.

Asansiev said he considered that the accusations against Gen. Leopold Okulicki, commander of the Polish home army, Jan Jankowski, vice premier of the Polish government in London, and two other defendants had been proved.

"To punish the great crimes of which the four prisoners are accused according to law, the supreme penalty—death by shooting—should be demanded," he said. But he added that "he considers it possible not to insist on" the death penalty.

Asansiev said, according to the Moscow radio, that now that the Red army has won the war with Germany "these criminals" do not constitute such a danger as to demand the death penalty.

For this reason, he added, the prosecution considers it possible to limit to imprisonment the demands in the case of the four defendants specified. The radio did not make clear immediately what verdict was to be sought for the other 12.

Bracketed with Okulicki and Jankowski in the discussion of the four were Adam Bien, vice chairman of the underground council of ministers, and Stanislaw Jasukowicz, former member of the Polish parliament.

The prosecutor said they were organizers and leaders of "criminal activity" in western White Russia and the western Ukraine.

The Moscow broadcast said three witnesses summoned at request of the chief defendant, Gen. Leopold Okulicki, commander of the outlawed Polish home army, would not be able to appear today or tomorrow.

The plane on which the three men were to be brought to Moscow was grounded by bad weather, the broadcast said. It did not make clear whether the men would be heard later.

Okulicki originally has asked permission to call six witnesses, but the court said two were unavailable because they were outside the Soviet Union and a third could not appear because he was "on his way to a camp."

The reference to the camp was not clarified.

Asansiev announced last evening that in view of the "clarity of the case" against the 16 men, he would not call any further witnesses. Eleven more witnesses had been scheduled to testify.

Defense counsel also said that as far as they were concerned, the (Continued on Page Two)

WISCONSIN MAN FIRST TO REACH OKINAWA COAST

OKINAWA, June 20—When the U. S. Marines broke through to the southern end of Okinawa, Cpl. John Corbett, Milwaukee, Wis., was the first man to reach the coast.

He did it through prior arrangement that he was to have the honor of tossing the first pebble into the Pacific ocean from the southern beach. Corbett was in K. Co., led by 1st Lt. David Carter, Kenmore, Pa.

The leathernecks were under command of Lt. Col. Paul Wallace Seattle, Wash., in the surge to their final objective. The 8th Marine regiment, thrown into the front line two days ago, beat the 5th Marine regiment to the beach by 37 minutes.

The 8th reached the goal at 6:23 p. m. with the 5th, led by Col. John H. Griebel, Oxford, Md., making it at 7:10.

Navy To Keep Postwar 'Combat Superiority' Over 'Likely Enemies'

WASHINGTON, June 20—The U. S. Navy wants a postwar fleet big enough to lick whatever naval forces any other power or combination of "likely enemies" could bring to bear on North or South America or the Pacific ocean areas.

It wants to be sure that fleet includes enough warships to provide this country's contribution to world security forces.

And in addition it wants to be sure of having enough extra war-craft to take care of policing operations in Japanese and German waters immediately after the end of the war.

That, in brief, is the Navy's tentative postwar plan as outlined to house and senate naval affairs committees yesterday by Navy Secretary James V. Forrestal and Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet.

The joint session was not open to reporters but Chairman David I. Walsh, D. Mass., of the senate group released a statement by Forrestal afterward containing what the Navy felt safely might be made public now.

To maintain a postwar fleet ready for any emergency the naval chiefs recommended dividing the present fleet, largest the world has ever known, into two parts. One would be kept on active duty, the other in reserve.

Forrestal said that the strength of the active navy would vary in direct ratio to "the blood pressure" (Continued on Page Two)

Produce Merchants Warn Of Potato Famine; Blame Government Rules

WASHINGTON, June 20—The government said today that Americans will get fewer calories in their 1945 diet than they did in the years just before the war. At the same time produce merchants warned of an impending potato famine in the eastern half of the United States.

The report on calories came from the agriculture department, which said that although the supply this year will be 5 to 10 per cent lower than last year Americans still will average a "good safe margin" over minimum standards. The cut is due largely to meat, fat and sugar shortages.

Aside from calories the department said this year's diet would supply a little more of other essential nutrients than before the war. Overall consumption of food will be 5 to 7 per cent less than last year's peak.

The department gave this resume of the latest prospects for the year's overall food supply:

Total production: 7 per cent under last year but 32 per cent above prewar levels.

Vitamins: Two important ones, niacin and thiamine, will be 10 per cent shorter than last year.

Meat: Consumption will be 120 to 125 pounds per person compared with 150 pounds last year. No improvement in fats and oils expected before next summer.

Eggs: In record supply so far this year but will grow scarce during the next six months.

Beverages: "Adequate." May be a little more tea and coffee but less cocoa.

Fresh fruits and vegetables: About as much as last year if victory gardeners come through. Less canned fruits and vegetables, and reduced supplies of potatoes and sweet potatoes are in prospect.

John van Arnum, secretary of the National Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association, said the potato shortage would be so severe as to constitute a crisis in another 10 days.

Predicting a severe summer shortage east of the Mississippi, he said the situation was due to "demoralized distribution" which he blamed on government transportation policies.

He said Col. J. Monroe Johnson of the Office of Defense Transportation had ordered railroads to carry on third more potatoes per car than it was safe to haul without (Continued on Page Two)

GIRL OF 25 IS NEW MAYOR OF GERMAN TOWN

ARNSTADT, Germany, June 20—A pretty, pink-cheeked girl of 25 was running this town of 30,000 persons near Weimar today as probably the first woman mayor in German history.

Frau Ursula Meisterernst, who holds a doctorate of laws from Heidelberg university and is a strong anti-Nazi, was installed as mayor by American occupation authorities.

She was given the spacious, paneled office of the former Nazi oberbürgermeister and told to run the town. Guiding her is tall, lanky Capt. Jack McGowan of Dallas, Tex., American military government officer.

Ursula said her husband, a German army medic, was not surprised on his return home to find her the new mayor.

"He's used to my running things, anyhow," she said.

Her father used to be police chief of Kassel, but was discharged and imprisoned by the Nazis. Later he was drafted into the German army and now is a war prisoner somewhere in southern England.

Japanese forces on Okinawa—what there was left of them—faced slaughter, suicide or surrender today as the campaign entered its closing hours.

Scores of enemy soldiers leaped into the sea from the cliffs on the island's southern tip. Many surrendered, more than ever before in the Pacific war. The rest waited in their foxholes and caves until Americans fell upon them and killed them. There were few left, and the victory was all but won.

made another landing unopposed southeast of Brunel town, drove two miles closer to the rubber center of Beaufort, and on the coast advanced four miles from Tutong toward the Seria and Miri oilfields.

Manila communiques offered no support for the Tokyo report of a fleet massed off Balikpapan and minesweepers operating in the bay. But heavy bombers again raided targets in the Balikpapan area as they have every day for over a week.

The last phase of the Okinawa fighting was summed up by Lt. Col. John G. Johnson, Champaign, Ill., commander of the 22nd Marine regiment as follows:

"We've got them on the run now. We're going like a bat out of hell and we intend to keep them on the run."

The Japanese had nowhere to run to except the sea, and many of them chose that as they did when the Saipan fighting ended the same way. The estimated 2,000 or less enemy troops were cut into little pockets of 10 to 100 men, each being rubbed out systematically by units of the five divisions which made the climactic drive to the south coast.

The first breakthrough to the coast was made by the eighth regiment of the second Marine divisions which made the climactic point 700 yards south of Kome-su. That cut the enemy-held land in two pockets. Then the fourth regiment of the sixth Marine division broke through to cut it into four parts. Again and again these pockets were hacked to little pieces as the Marines fanned out in all directions.

TRUMAN RESTS IN NORTHWEST; PRESENTS AWARD

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 20—President Truman rested today in the northwest while awaiting word from San Francisco that the United Nations conference has reached the state where a definite date can be set for its conclusion.

The president's present plans call for his appearance before the final plenary session of the conference on Saturday. But that date remains tentative and the chief executive has been in daily touch with Secretary of State E. R. Stettinius, Jr.

The president, the guest here of Gov. Mon Wallgren, scheduled only two brief public appearances today. In the forenoon he will present the congressional medal of honor to Sgt. John D. Hawk, Bremerton, Wash., in a ceremony on the capitol steps. Hawk receives the award for his heroism in helping stop a German tank attack in the Ardennes bulge last fall.

GRAZIANI, SIX OTHER ITALIANS ARE INDICTED

ROME, June 20—Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, former Italian chief of staff, and six other Italian generals were indicted today on collaboration charges.

Alessandro Casati, war minister in the former Bonomi cabinet, made the charges and asked that the seven generals be tried before a military tribunal.

Graziani was charged specifically with treason in collaborating with the Nazis. Another defendant is Gen. Gastone Gambara, chief of the Italian expeditionary force in Spain during the Civil war.

CHERRIES TO BE SCARCE

WASHINGTON, June 20—With prospects that this year's red cherry crop will be the smallest on record, the War Food Administration today placed a 100 per cent set-aside on all canned and frozen cherries processed in 1945. Processors must hold their entire production for purchase by the government.

of the international community.

"If world conditions deteriorate," he explained, "ships in the reserve fleet should be called to duty and added to the active fleet. If international relations improve, vessels can be withdrawn from the active fleet and laid up in reserve."

The secretary said this system would give the United States for the first time in its history the advantage of "quickly and continually flexing our naval strength."

As our estimate of the international situation may require:

Here is the navy's six-point formula for the "active" forces, it believes should be maintained in the postwar fleet:

1. The minimum combatant naval craft required as America's contribution to the international force. Exact determination of these forces must await conclusion of the special agreements in the Dumbarton Oaks proposal.
2. The minimum combatant naval craft (including those named above) required to afford effective combat superiority over the active naval forces that any other single power, or any combination of likely enemies, whichever is the larger, could bring to bear in the western part of the north or south Atlantic oceans or anywhere in the Pacific ocean and the approaches to these areas. In all probability these areas would be the same ones for which the Navy would have major responsibility under number one.
3. The minimum additional combatant naval craft, if any, required to provide for such policing (apart from number one) as the interests and commitments of the United States require. This provision would cover forces needed to police Japanese or German waters immediately after the war.
4. The minimum additional combatant naval craft, if any, required for local defense and sea frontier forces.
5. The minimum additional combatant naval craft, if any, required to provide for training and for the continuing development of the art of naval warfare, including amphibious and tripartite warfare.
6. The minimum auxiliary naval craft, including landing craft, required for the support of the foregoing combatant forces and of shore activities.

Ships placed in reserve could be brought out quickly should international conditions warrant enlargement of the active fleet. A few months ago the Navy announced development of several new substances making it possible to put vessels in storage so they are completely protected from deterioration.

case was clear and they would not question other witnesses, Okulicki was not represented by counsel, but conducted his own defense.

One of the final witnesses yesterday, Evgeni Chernowsky, president of the Polish democratic union, cleared Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, former premier of the Polish exile government in London, of connection with the Polish home army's alleged attacks on the Red army.

Chernowsky testified that Okulicki had told him that Mikolajczyk must be kept in ignorance of the existence of an underground organization because Mikolajczyk might come to an agreement with the rival Polish provisional government in Warsaw.

The testimony came while Mikolajczyk in fact was conferring with representatives of the Warsaw government and other Polish leaders in Moscow under auspices of the Allied big three.

It previously had been thought that some attempt might be made to link Mikolajczyk with the underground, because some of the reported attacks on the Red army occurred while he was premier of the London government. Okulicki told the court that the home army and the underground were under direction of the London regime.

A Moscow dispatch said the manner in which the prosecution cross-questioned several of the lesser defendants indicated they would be acquitted or at most receive light sentences.

Van Arnum said the War Food Administration yesterday rejected 25 carloads of North Carolina potatoes at Norfolk, Va., which were decayed as a result of the heavier load order and lack of ice.

He predicted potatoes would "disappear" from many markets including Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Louisville and Chicago unless the ICC lifted the icing ban.

He asserted that the present situation would result in "the worst black market in vegetables since the beginning of the war because legitimate shippers were afraid to take the chance of shipping by rail and were beginning to sell to black market truck operators.

TRIESTE AREA TROUBLES OVER ALLIES STATE

ROME, June 20—The "Trieste incident" was settled amicably today with the announcement of an agreement providing for joint occupation of the disputed Italian-Yugoslav border area by American, British and Yugoslav troops pending final disposition of the territory at the peace conference.

Allied headquarters announced that the three-power accord was concluded in Belgrade and that all military details in connection with the pact have been completed.

Under the agreement, the western half of Venezia Giulia province—the northeastern corner of Italy—will be occupied by American and British troops, with the eastern part under Yugoslav control.

ENGINEER GIVES TESTIMONY FOR CITY IN TRIAL

Donald H. Maxwell, engineer from the Chicago engineering firm of Alvord, Burdick and Houson, continued to give testimony on the witness stand in the common pleas court appropriation suit brought by the city of Circleville against the Ohio Water Service company.

Mr. Maxwell testified as to the evaluation of the water works property in Circleville.

Clarence Helvering and Tucker Wardell were called to the witness stand Tuesday afternoon.

Thursday last day for A-15 GASOLINE STAMPS

Thursday will be the last day the A-15 gasoline stamps may be accepted by gasoline dealers. Friday the A-16, worth six gallons each, will be valid. They will last through September 21.

The new gasoline hike raised the value of the A coupons fifty percent. It means a monthly increase of about 1,200,000 gallons in the Columbus OPA district. There are 297,746 A card holders in this district. Except for the increase in the number of gallons that may be purchased with each A ticket, there are no other changes in the gasoline regulations.

Bus Showdown Ends

Representatives of the Transport Workers Union, CIO, in New York announced the end of a bus slowdown which affected 90 percent of the city's buses. A dispute over pay and overtime work will go to an arbitrator.

A strike of 5,000 marine and shipbuilding workers, CIO, at the Bethlehem Steel Corp. shipyards in Hoboken, N. J., over a wage dispute, left the yards deserted for the second day today.

Local officials of the United Electrical Radio and Machine workers, CIO, sought help from international officers in a move to settle a strike of 1,000 employees at the General Electric company, Bridgeport, Conn. Labor leaders said the men complained they found it "very embarrassing" that their wives made more money than they did.

Others Join Walkouts

Two hundred workers at the American Brake Shoe company, Pittsburgh, stayed away from their jobs because a molder was sent home after he refused to take home work assigned to him.

Charging "unjust" dismissal of two union officials, 200 workers at the Seneca Falls, N. Y., machine company continued a walkout, tying up war production at the plant.

One hundred glass workers at the Northwestern glass company, Seattle, struck for higher wages. Loggers in the northwest area threatened to strike unless the WLB approved wage increases.

The AFL machinists union said it will petition the WLB tomorrow for a strike vote among 10,000 workers at the El Segundo, Calif., Douglas Aircraft plant. They complained there was downgrading, lower pay for women, and that new workers were hired at less pay than they had been receiving at other plants.

NEW SETBACK GIVEN LAUSCHE BY ASSEMBLY

COLUMBUS, June 20—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today smarted under his third legislative setback in as many weeks.

The Republican-dominated house yesterday ignored the governor's recommendation in defeating a bill to permit the state conservation department to regulate strip mining.

The measure received only 53 votes—16 short of the required majority—while 58 members voted against the measure. Three members of Lausche's own Democratic party opposed the bill.

Although the house's action was a direct slap at Lausche, it more directly was a victory for Ohio's nine operators who have led a vigorous campaign against the legislation.

The defeat of the strip mining bill dropped Lausche's legislative batting average to almost zero.

ONE DIFFERENCE DELAYS NATIONS

Otherwise the conference was making giant strides toward adjournment. Four of the proposed 14 chapters of the charter were approved by commissions in public session yesterday. That brought the total of approved chapters to 10. Three more probably will get commission approval today, leaving only the one on the assembly which is tied up by the Soviet-Australian controversy.

In addition, the conference got its first taste of drama since the early days of the conference. After weeks of dull technical work, a conference commission plunged into heated discussion last night of Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain and concluded by unanimously adopting a Mexican declaration which will keep Spain blacklisted from United Nations membership while Franco rules.

Speaker after speaker denounced Franco vehemently to the accompaniment of applause. But the climax of the hour long discussion was left for a man who has been severely criticized for U. S. policy toward Spain—Assistant Secretary of State James C. Dunn. From the rostrum of the opera house, he delivered a one-sentence "speech":

"The United States is in complete accord with the statement of the delegation from Mexico and desires to associate itself with that declaration."

The Mexican declaration, adopted unanimously, interprets the charter as prohibiting membership to any government which came into power with Axis aid—a charge leveled at Franco.

Rep. Clinton Anderson, D., N. M., who takes office as secretary of Agriculture July 1, has ordered an investigation of the potato situation.

Meanwhile the unofficial Republican food study retailers are getting only five per cent of the shortening their customers demand.

In some areas bakeries face closing because of the shortening scarcity, the committee said in renewing its demand for an overall food authority.

Shortages in fats and oils, as well as in meat, poultry and sugar, are the result of scattered and inefficient food controls, the committee charged.

The lard scarcity also has caused a serious shortage of laundry soap which is being felt by the Army as well as housewives, the report said.

Yet, it asserted, the OPA hesitated to ration soap because it was fearful soap rationing would be "the straw that would break the camel's back."

Charging "unjust" dismissal of two union officials, 200 workers at the Seneca Falls, N. Y., machine company continued a walkout, tying up war production at the plant.

One hundred glass workers at the Northwestern glass company, Seattle, struck for higher wages. Loggers in the northwest area threatened to strike unless the WLB approved wage increases.

The AFL machinists union said it will petition the WLB tomorrow for a strike vote among 10,000 workers at the El Segundo, Calif., Douglas Aircraft plant. They complained there was downgrading, lower pay for women, and that new workers were hired at less pay than they had been receiving at other plants.

FORMER MASTER IS GUEST AT GRANGE MEETING

Hoyt Timmons, a former master, who has been overseas 35 months and a German prisoner nearly three years, was the guest at the regular business meeting of the Pickaway Grange, conducted Tuesday evening at the Pickaway school.

Frank Graze, master, presided at the meeting, after which Mr. Timmons gave a talk.

The program was opened with group singing followed by a recitation by Sidney Graze. Mrs. John Miller conducted contests, two of which were won by Miss Alda Bartley and Herbert Miller.

Carolyn Wright offered two solos, "Irish Eyes Are Smiling" and "Desert Song" and Mr. Graze gave a humorous reading.

The next meeting will be the first Tuesday in July and honored guests will be returned soldiers, who were former members, and recent brides and grooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Graze and Miss Bartley served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

War Loan Drive Solicitors Urged To Complete Canvass At Once

Members of the Pickaway county war finance committee Wednesday urged solicitors to complete their house-to-house canvass as sales continued to lag in the 7th war loan drive.

Clark C. Will, county chairman, said Wednesday the report through June 15 showed the following: 1789 E bond sales for $130,443.75; other issues, 121 sales for $286,300, making a total of 1910 sales amounting to $416,743.75.

This represents only 57 per cent of the county's $728,000 quota for individuals. The sale of E bonds is only 33 per cent of the quota of $405,000. The sale of other issues represents 88 per cent of the quota of $323,000.

During the sixth war loan drive sales totaled 3492 in number with a total of $305,291 in Series E bonds. Mr. Will pointed out that a great deal of intensive selling during the remaining days of the drive to reach the largest E bond quota assigned to Pickaway county in any drive so far.

Rural solicitors are urged to complete their solicitation during this period when they are unable to work in the fields.

Mr. Will said: "Pickaway county has a splendid record of sales during all of the preceding drives and we cannot afford to fall down at this time. This was only half done, men and material are needed in the Pacific and we would not want to have Pickaway county boys feel that we are letting them down at this critical time. Money is needed, not only to carry on the war in the Pacific, but for hospitalization and the care of returned soldiers. What finer tribute could be paid to General 'Ike' than to have this drive go over during

86 SEAWORTHY GERMAN U-BOATS NOW IN BRITAIN

OSLO, NORWAY, June 20—Eighty-six German submarines, all the seaworthy U-boats found in Norway, have been sent to Britain pending a final decision on their disposition. Allied naval headquarters said today.

Unofficial quarters said a few submarines may have tried to reach the Far East, but this largely was discounted. However, it was disclosed that at one time the Germans had more submarines operating in the Indian ocean than the Japanese. They were based in Malaya and Sumatra.

The danger from German submarines at sea when Germany surrendered is considered over, allied headquarters said.

VATICAN CITY, June 20—General Mark W. Clark, recently returned from the United States, had a ten minute audience with Pope Pius XII Tuesday. Clark presented his son, Lt. William Clark, and Brig. Gen. George Honnen to the pontiff.

HOPE FOR INDIA

THE British are ready to live up to their promise to do something about India. They promise to remake the Viceroy's Executive Council, the governing body of India, into an almost native group with only two positions, those of Viceroy and War Minister, in their own hands. A conference of recognized Indian party leaders is to make nominations from which the Viceroy, Viscount Wavell, will select his Council. It is further guaranteed that Indian acceptance of the present plan will not prejudice complete Home Rule later.

As evidence of their sincerity, they have at the same time released from custody several imprisoned members of the Congress Working Committee, and have called the first meeting of the Indian Conference at Simla within two weeks.

There is still some doubt as to whether the various Indian groups will accept this. Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, has requested a two-week postponement of the Conference to allow study of the proposals. But Mohandas K. Gandhi, so often at odds with the British in his campaign for a free India, has announced that he will relinquish his leadership to the liberated party members.

Acquiescence would break the deadlock which has existed since India's refusal of the Cripps proposals, and be a step toward solution of a great problem.

PARENTS' AMBITION

AMBITIOUS young folk finishing high school, or rushing off to train for war, remind older people of what Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote, "Nothing more moves a wise man's pity than the case of the lad who is in too much hurry to be learned."

Parents often are torn between desire that their children shall succeed in material things, and that they shall be happy. It is certain that the two do not always go together.

Perhaps the parents who do best by their children are those who refrain from fussing at them too much. The most mistaken parent is often the one who unconsciously over-urges a child so that he will fulfill the parent's ambition.

WOMEN SMOKERS

WHO smoke our cigarettes? The women, a New York firm of cigaret manufacturers announces. Out of the 329,000,000,000 cigarettes a year made for American civilian use, 69 per cent are bought for women.

By the last census there were roughly 66,000,000 men in the United States to 65,000,000 women. Even allowing for the men in the armed services, the civilian population is not 69 per cent feminine. It looks as if women, who were slow in taking up the filthy weed, are now smoking with all their hearts.

War Poem: General Patton keeps his hat on. Also his shirt.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 20—Those senators back from Europe had far more to say than they offered in interviews. Their private reports on their quick-study of the western end of the continent would make your ears curl. Here are some of the things they did not make public:

De Gaulle is staving off an election in France because he fears the Communists will sweep him and all Democrats into the discard. The impending election in the British Isles may do much to determine how she will stand against the sweeping surge, as defeat of Churchill would mean appeasement of Communist expansion. He, himself, is afraid of it. Yet Churchill and De Gaulle are fighting each other.

De Gaulle ordered the Syrian shooting by his French forces because he saw Britain going back into the middle east in the old way and thought he could do the same thing. Churchill dislikes him and is suspicious of him, although the French general is probably the only remaining roadblock to communism in France. De Gaulle is existing in control only by adroit double-handed juggling of French political factions.

The French people are not as fully filled with admiration of us as the cheering movie newsreels sometimes suggest. They see American soldiers not always as their liberators but as highly paid strangers, (strangers) who travel in jeeps while others walk, and are well-fed, while they are not.

The French powers likewise resent the presence of American forces in North Africa because we tend to give the Arabs ideas of liberty which the French do not consider healthful for their colonists.

Their ruined industries, shortages of materials and unbelievably extreme decay in morals are combining to break the stamina of the nation and make it an easy prey for any opposition to existing rule—and the sole, present, powerful opposition is the political absurdity known as Communism. (A sensational incident involving abuse of German women is told.)

Their heritage runs back into a great love of liberty as deep as our own, but they are to a considerable extent a peasant people, and therefore easily subject to harsh, disciplined leadership of dictators. So far they have not come to that yet, but there is resignation apparent among millions of them who do not have enough to eat and not enough work. They are in the mood for subjection by any over-running political power.

In Italy, communism is much stronger than dispatches have led us to suspect. The revolutionary movement is kept down mainly by the American military force of occupation. It seems to have all the political spending money in hand-to-hand circulation there. All the symptoms of dejected resignation apparent in France are also present in Italy, including the decline in morals.

The Belgians and Dutch seem to have much more character, more stamina, are more insistent upon liberty and christian principles. They are trying harder to revive. Their people show less moral decay.

Whether the people in Anglo-French-American Germany can be made democratic is yet unclear. They are not only dejected but sullen and all believe they face years of dire existence as their penalty for making war. The anti-fraternization policy of General Eisenhower is likely to be changed to permit our soldiers to mingle more with them.

Nose and Throat Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

ANY infection in the nose and throat is a threat to the eustachian tubes. That is, the tubes which are causing the infection may get into the eustachian tubes. These tubes run from the throat to the middle part of the ear and frequently the infection in the nose or throat gets to the ear through these tubes.

According to Doctor H. W. Schwartz of Canada, to keep the eustachian tubes acting normally, is important in the treatment of middle-ear infections. To do this, he suggests that the patient be kept at rest in bed, and that the throat be washed with hot salt solution with the patient's body bent well forward. This will help the patient to avoid coughing during the washing of the throat.

Nose Infection

If there is infection in the nose, Doctor Schwartz suggests the use of ephedrine in salt solution, and the breathing in of steam. If, with this treatment the examination of the ear drum shows it to be reddened and bulging, it is evident that the infection in the ear has progressed and the ear drum must then be cut open to allow infected material to drain out.

It is shown that almost three times as many operations on the mastoid are necessary in those cases of middle ear infection in which the drum is allowed to break open, as in those which are cut open before rupture occurs. The mastoid sinus is the space in the bone back of the ear.

Doctor Schwartz thinks that with this treatment more than 80 per cent of the patients with an acute infection of the middle ear will recover in from a few days to several weeks.

Sulfonamide Drugs
The question then arises as to whether or not giving of the sulfonamide drugs may be useful in these infections. Doctor Schwartz is of the opinion that their use in acute middle ear infections is not advisable since they tend to hide the symptoms and thus mastoid complications may develop without being recognized.

Of course, there are many physicians who do not agree with this at all. In any event, if the sulfonamide drugs are given, the patient must be carefully watched daily to make sure that all is going well. When the sulfonamide drugs are given, the patient's temperature returns to normal quickly and the other symptoms, such as pain in the ear, rapidly vanish.

There seems to be more and more of a tendency to save the sulfonamide drugs for those conditions which are serious and not waste their use on disorders which can be successfully treated in other ways.

STARS SAY—

For Wednesday, June 20

AN EXCEPTIONALLY lively and exciting day, in which certain very ambitious projects should attain desired and pleasant denouement, although there might be some peculiar, curious, even unique situations arising to tax the ingenuity and wise judgment. It might be well to endeavor to unearth hidden factors or intrigues, in order to cope successfully with dubious conditions. New contracts or agreements in which documents, publications, writing or literary matters are to be shrewdly considered, and this may involve travel, change, agencies, and legal decisions. Sign papers cautiously.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a very lively and intriguing year in which all matters move under high tension and with pleasant excitement. New plans, objectives of an ambitious nature are to the fore, with change, travel, new affiliations and agreements. Writings, documents, publicity and promotional enterprises may tax the ingenuity and sagacity, since there is a menace of underhand, distorted, strange or perplexing problems to be wisely and shrewdly unraveled. It is advised that more than ordinary care be exercised in the handling and signing of all sorts of writings or publications.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

THE BARONESS glanced about the candle-lit dining table and gave a snort of rage.

"Not a new face tonight again! What is this? A monastery? Have we plague or something? Where are all the people who usually light here in summer?"

Brooks laughed. "You can blame me, Roxie. Corinne told everyone she'd kill them if they came out before I had my campaign speeches written."

"Good heavens!" moaned the baroness. "Well, why don't you write them?"

"Just what Corinne asked last night over the phone," grinned Brooks. "To tell you the truth, I've been too busy with this peon trouble, and the asada and the houses."

"None of which you dared say to Corinne," Jim guessed shrewdly. "Correct," Brooks smiled. "But I'm going to get at another speech tonight."

The baroness sighed and turned to Terry. "What about going into the village with me? There's a Robert Paige picture on."

Terry begged off. She had some pressing letters, she alibied. In reality, she had missed two nights on her novel and was wild to sneak in a few hours of work.

"I don't suppose you'll go," Jim said. The baroness snapped. "You think Norte American movies are so risqué."

Jim laughed. "Of course I do," she said. "But did I ever stay away from them for that reason? As a matter of fact, I believe a movie would relax me. I'm getting as nervous over the asada tomorrow night as the peons." She turned to Raff, who was eating absently, lost in thought.

Raff jumped, startled out of his abstraction, and the baroness arched her eyebrows at him. "Are you in love?"

Raff grinned. "Sure," he admitted. "But I was working out a problem at the moment."

The baroness looked ominous. She said in a menacing voice, "If I hear that word 'work' around here just one more time, I'm leaving, and not quietly."

Jim said, "Raff, you do need some relaxation. Drive us into the village, won't you?"

Raff hesitated. He had thought he'd set down some ideas for the magazine reporter who'd be here for the asada tomorrow.

"Nonsense," Jim said briskly. "The man will have his questions all ready. Information is always better when it's spontaneous." "Do come," urged the baroness. "You're getting absolutely drippy." She looked suspiciously at Terry's chuckle. "Isn't that the word?" "It'll do in a pinch," grinned Terry.

The evening's plan worked out to Terry's delight. She waved Raff, Jim and the baroness goodbye from the peon cocho and went back into the great hall. Sandy and Brooks were a closeted in Brooks' study with a report. She would have hours to herself. She made sure no one was about, then quickly let herself out the side door and ran down through the darkness, finding her way by the pattern of trees and shrubs, to the deeper shadow of the observatory. She would not be missed, she knew. If anyone looked for her, the servants would report she had gone for a walk. It was the alibi she always used to them when she disappeared to work, and they were used to giving the explanation. She would go for a short walk, to soothe her conscience.

The wide, wooden door squeaked as she pushed it open. She shut it again and slid the bolt. Then she crossed to close the wooden shutters on the one small window before snapping on the reading light. What a blessing this room was! She was sure, with the door and window closed, the noise of her portable typewriter could not be heard outside the observatory. If it was heard by someone passing, she letters. But she hoped her hideout would never be discovered.

She pulled her typewriter out of the bottom drawer of the abandoned desk in the corner and the paper from beneath it. First, she thought, she must jot down the notes of everything that had happened in the last two days. The exciting preparations for the asada—they must all be in the chapter preceding the asada itself. If the asada lived up to the preparations, it would indeed be a celebration!

She had been to some of the peon houses today. She made a note of the high stacks of lumber piled at the various housing sites ready for the builders. There was always a peon or two pausing to stare at it, touch it with eager reverence. All this must go in the chapter on the houses. Her typewriter raced on, putting down every clue. Brooks had given her of the peon trouble. If he didn't discover any serious trouble, she must improvise some for the climax of the novel. But she could write around it a few more chapters. The thing now was the workers themselves, these sensitive people of the pampas who hid eager natures behind a morose and stolid front. In spite of their secrecy, she felt they were loyal to the Kimberlys, as loyal and devoted as Angela was to her. Whatever the trouble, it was not of their making. She was sure of that. It was some outside source. And Brooks. She smiled abruptly and her flying fingers stopped. Brooks was in every other line of the notes. It was becoming his story all right. It would be he who would be most indignant when this novel was published.

She whipped out the notes, slid fresh paper into the machine, and began a chapter, with a guilty smile. It was of Brooks again—Brooks on one of his endless rounds of the estancia, the Lord of the Manor, settling disputes, making decisions, the day of harvesting, the number of cattle to be shipped, the time for the sheep to be sheared. Brooks looking so bronzed and fit and thoughtful as he made a note of a fence to be mended or a peon who needed medical attention.

She was rolling in a fresh sheet of paper when she realized the room was stuffy. She glanced at her watch and saw she had been working for more than two hours. She turned off the light and opened the little window. As she stood before it taking a couple of quick breaths, she heard the flying hoofbeats of a horse. An instant later, it galloped close by the observatory. On its back was the huddled figure of Angela!

Terry hastily put her typewriter and paper away and ran through the grounds back to the house. The horse was standing by the side door. Angela was hurrying toward the stairs when Terry came in. She cried out with relief at sight of her, and Terry saw there were tears running down the small, dark cheeks.

"What is it, Angela?" she cried. Angela came running back to her, her brown hands clutching Terry's. "Pedro!" she sobbed. "Pedro—he play on the pile of lumber and he fall! He very bad hurt!" "Tell me the doctor," Terry was starting for the hall phone when she heard Brooks' voice. He was standing in the doorway of his study. "Tell him," he said. "If you'll get us some coats and one for Angela, Terry, I'll have the car at the door."

BETTER THAN FINESSING

SETTING up the long cards of a suit, to discard losers in some other one, is usually preferred tactics by a fine player. Lesser players seem to have a preference for ruffing out losers when in a suit contract, or for finessing in the play for either a suit or No Trump objective. Seldom do you see any body but pretty good cardmen try to set up a single card in a long suit by ruffing out a couple of losers in it.

Not often does a player get a chance to make the bid which North did—an immediate call of the opponent's suit to proclaim game strength in some of the other suits. When East doubled it to show a fit to his partner, he gave South a chance to show just a bit of strength with his spade call, and when North hopped to just below slam, South decided to go the rest of the way.

Some other pairs got into 6-

West led the diamond K, which was ruffed by the spade 2, whereupon South went to work to set up a club. He took the A and K, then led the 3. East put in his spade 7, which the 10 over-ruffed. The diamond Q was covered by the A and ruffed by the spade 3. The club 6 was led, East discarding, the spade 5 ruffed it. East also let the diamond J win when he had heart 2 was discarded. The diamond 6 was returned, ruffed by the spade Q. The spade J dropped West's last trump. The heart 7 was led then to the A and the now established club 8 was the final trick.

Bowles Warns Government Must Hold Inflation Line | Republicans Seek 6-Month Embargo on Sugar Shipping

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—One of the principal issues behind the congressional battle over price control is the achievement of full production and the 60,000,000 jobs called for by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt. OPA Administrator Chester Bowles has bluntly warned that the government must hold the line against inflation until the civilian economy can get into full swing again.

Otherwise, the OPA administrator predicted, a disastrous price rise will wreck the entire price control mechanism before civilian production can take up the slack in interim unemployment created by military cutbacks.

While OPA does not use the term "60,000,000 jobs," its arguments are directed toward that goal. To speed the job of reconversion, OPA is stepping up its program of pricing formulas for post-war industries.

Bowles frankly admits that OPA must have the job done or full production, price control and the entire national economy will suffer.

REPUBLICANS ON CAPITOL HILL are unhappy about what they call "blunders and errors" in the handling of the sugar situation. They demand a six-month embargo on shipments of sugar to foreign nations and maintain that such action will increase the supplies in the United States by 170,000 tons of sugar.

Chester Bowles

Agricultural observers believe that the sugar shortage will be eased, at least partially, when Clinton Anderson takes over the collective desks of Marvin Jones, retiring War Foods Administration chief, and Claude Wickard, agriculture secretary, on July 1.

Republicans and Democrats alike concede that Anderson intends to strong-arm the food situation back into line. Sugar is one of the first "toughies" to be dealt with.

Anderson's own House investigating committee on food put out a special report on the sugar situation recently which called for correction of current food policies.

Talk of a "sugar famine" is not idle gossip. The government has announced severe cuts both to civilian and to industrial consumers. The Republican objections are based on shipments of sugar from the United States to European countries during the shortage at home. Republicans place these shipments at a total of 2,000,000 tons of sugar to be shipped abroad in the near future.

HOPE FOR INDIA
THE British are ready to live up to their promise to do something about India. They promise to remake the Viceroy's Executive Council, the governing body of India, into an almost native group with only two positions, those of Viceroy and War Minister, in their own hands. A conference of recognized Indian party leaders is to make nominations from which the Viceroy, Viscount Wavell, will select his Council. It is further guaranteed that Indian acceptance of the present plan will not prejudice complete Home Rule later.

As evidence of their sincerity, they have at the same time released from custody several imprisoned members of the Congress Working Committee, and have called the first meeting of the Indian Conference at Simla within two weeks.

There is still some doubt as to whether the various Indian groups will accept this. Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, has requested a two-week postponement of the Conference to allow study of the proposals. But Mohandas K. Gandhi, so often at odds with the British in his campaign for a free India, has announced that he will relinquish his leadership to the liberated party members.

Acquiescence would break the deadlock which has existed since India's refusal of the Cripps proposals, and be a step toward solution of a great problem.

PARENTS' AMBITION
AMBITIOUS young folk finishing high school, or rushing off to train for war, remind older people of what Robert Louis Stevenson once wrote, "Nothing more moves a wise man's pity than the case of the lad who is in too much hurry to be learned."

Parents often are torn between desire that their children shall succeed in material things, and that they shall be happy. It is certain that the two do not always go together.

Perhaps the parents who do best by their children are those who refrain from fussing at them too much. The most mistaken parent is often the one who unconsciously over-urges a child so that he will fulfill the parent's ambition.

WOMEN SMOKERS
WHO smoke our cigarettes? The women, a New York firm of cigaret manufacturers announces. Out of the 329,000,000, 000 cigarettes a year made for American civilian use, 69 per cent are bought for women.

By the last census there were roughly 66,000,000 men in the United States to 65,000,000 women. Even allowing for the men in the armed services, the civilian population is not 69 per cent feminine. It looks as if women, who were slow in taking up the filthy weed, are now smoking with all their hearts.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS
By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 20—Those senators back from Europe had far more to say than they offered in interviews. Their private reports on their quick-study of the western end of the continent would make your ears curl. Here are some of the things they did not make public:

De Gaulle is staving off an election in France because he fears the Communists will sweep him and all Democrats into the discard. The impending election in the British Isles may do much to determine how she will stand against the sweeping surge, as defeat of Churchill would mean appeasement of Communist expansion. He, himself, is afraid of it. Yet Churchill and De Gaulle are fighting each other.

De Gaulle ordered the Syrian shooting by his French forces because he saw Britain going back into the middle east in the old way and thought he could do the same thing. Churchill dislikes him and is suspicious of him, although the French general is probably the only remaining roadblock to communism in France. De Gaulle is existing in control only by adroit double-handed juggling of French political factions.

The French people are not as fully filled with admiration of us as the cheering movie newsreels sometimes suggest. They see American soldiers not always as their liberators but as highly paid strangers, (etrangers) who travel in jeeps while others walk, and are well-fed, while they are not.

The French powers likewise resent the presence of American forces in North Africa because we tend to give the Arabs ideas of liberty which the French do not consider healthful for their colonists.

Their ruined industries, shortages of materials and unbelievably extreme decay in morals are combining to break the stamina of the nation and make it an easy prey for any opposition to existing rule—and the sole, present, powerful opposition is the political absurdity known as Communism. (A sensational incident involving abuse of German women is told.)

Their heritage runs back into a great love of liberty as deep as our own, but they are to a considerable extent a peasant people, and therefore easily subject to harsh, disciplined leadership of dictators. So far they have not come to that yet, but there is resignation apparent among millions of them who do not have enough to eat and not enough work. They are in the mood for subjection by any over-running political power.

In Italy, communism is much stronger than dispatches have led us to suspect. The revolutionary movement is kept down mainly by the American military force of occupation. It seems to have all the political spending money in hand-to-hand circulation there. All the symptoms of dejected resignation apparent in France are also present in Italy, including the decline in morals.

The Belgians and Dutch seem to have much more character, more stamina, are more insistent upon liberty and christian principles. They are trying harder to revive. Their people show less moral decay.

Whether the people in Anglo-French-American Germany can be made democratic is yet unclear. They are not only dejected but sullen and all believe they face years of dire existence as their penalty for making war. The anti-fraternization policy of General Eisenhower is likely to be changed to permit our soldiers to mingle more with them.

BETTER THAN FINESSING
SETTING up the long cards of a suit, to discard losers in some other one, is usually preferred tactics by a fine player. Lesser players seem to have a preference for ruffing out losers when in a suit contract, or for finessing in the play for either a suit or No Trump objective. Seldom do you see any body but pretty good cardsmen try to set up a single card in a long suit by ruffing out a couple of losers in it.

Bowles Warns Government Must Hold Inflation Line | Republicans Seek 6-Month Embargo on Sugar Shipping
Special to Central Press
● WASHINGTON—One of the principal issues behind the congressional battle over price control is the achievement of full production and the 60,000,000 jobs called for by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt.
OPA Administrator Chester Bowles has bluntly warned that the government must hold the line against inflation until the civilian economy can get into full swing again.
Otherwise, the OPA administrator predicted, a disastrous price rise will wreck the entire price control mechanism before civilian production can take up the slack in interim unemployment created by military cutbacks.
While OPA does not use the term "60,000,000 jobs," its arguments are directed toward that goal.
To speed the job of reconversion, OPA is stepping up its program of pricing formulas for post-war industries.
Bowles frankly admits that OPA must have the job done or full production, price control and the entire national economy will suffer.
● REPUBLICANS ON CAPITOL HILL are unhappy about what they call "blunders and errors" in the handling of the sugar situation. They demand a six-month embargo on shipments of sugar to foreign nations and maintain that such action will increase the supplies in the United States by 170,000 tons of sugar.

If you want to wash your window shades, first be certain they are washable. Take one shade down at a time, dust it thoroughly and place it on a flat surface. Scrub with a soft brush or a sponge wrung out of thick, mild soapsuds, using water sparingly. Rinse with a sponge wrung out of clear water. Wipe dry and wash the other side. Hang the shade at the window, but do not roll until thoroughly dry.

To remove blood stains from a mattress, make a paste of raw starch and water, spread it thickly on the stain. Let dry, and brush off. Repeat if necessary.

It's a good idea to do your bathroom laundry when the man of the house is away, so he won't be annoyed by the bathroom being cluttered with drying clothes.

Stars on Cavalcade

Agnes Moorehead, member of the original Cavalcade Players who has played dozens of supporting roles on the NBC drama program in years past, returns to Cavalcade microphones, Monday, June 18th, as a movie star, to portray the leading role of "Party Line," a charming and nostalgic picture of the days when everyone had a party line teler-one and the operator gave out the news and ruled the town. Miss Moorehead's newest picture, soon to be released, will be "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes."

To dampen a wash evenly and quickly, you can make a useful and practical sprinkler by punching holes in the meal cap of an empty bottle. Fill the bottle about three-quarters full of warm water. Or you can use a clean whisk broom or a vegetable brush.

Always wash a new dark slip before wearing to remove excess surface dye. If you do not do this the dye may rub off to soil the skin and leave almost indelible stains on foundation garments or your dress.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

But these areas, all of them, are in our sphere of democratic influence, and therefore the most favorable sections of the continent. The Russians have everything else in their lap (except possibly Greece, which is held on one knee, so-to-speak) and everything the Russians have is completely blacked out from the rest of the wide world.

Nothing valid or penetrating is known by us of Yugoslavia, Romania, Bulgaria, Austria, or Czechoslovakia, except that Stalin is there setting up the kind of governments he wants, and one other confirmed fact — all anti-Communist opposition is being liquidated.

The Polish issue, which we discuss so extensively, is a minor matter as compared with this whole of middle and southeastern Europe, which is already operating on a Russian axis. By a trade treaty with Romania, Russia has taken the full measure of Romanian economy. Of economic, political or any other conditions in these nations, however, we know only what the Soviet propaganda censorship gives out. They are just the same as Soviet territory today as far as we are concerned — and perhaps as far as their people are concerned.

If conditions are as bad as they are known to be in our end of Europe, it would be unreasonable not to suppose that they are twice as bad in the unknown poorer end.

So when one of the senators said he feared from his trip all Europe was sweeping toward Communism or state socialism, he was speaking from the above-mentioned facts.

Many courses of probable action are being discussed. Anglo-French relations certainly need to be fixed at once. Reapproachment between De Gaulle and Churchill is called for. More intelligent and earnest American leadership to back the people in Europe who like our way of life (which was their historic way) is needed.

A food conference of all the Allied nations also seems possible. We cannot do anything important on this in the present crisis in our own larder, but Canada, Australia, Latin America and other nations have food. There is no starvation in Europe yet, but there may be this coming Winter. In fact, Winter is likely also to be the critical political time.

If the inroads of despair can be held back until this critical coming period is passed, a few of the senators have an idea the problem of Europe may possibly be worked out.

Wyoming's state highway chairman, J. R. Bromley, estimates that the postwar highway system in Wyoming will be worth approximately $100,000,000.

Out of 103 collegiate institutions in California, only 25 of them grant degrees. Ohio has approximately 64 collegiate institutions and 44 of them grant degrees.

The State of California has 103 so-called colleges or universities. Out of this number, 50 of them are junior colleges.

COLONELS KEEP LEAD; BREWERS MARGIN BIRDS

By United Press

Louisville hung on to its newly won position as American Association league leader today after dropping both ends of a double-header with Minneapolis as Milwaukee clung to second place by nosing out Columbus, 9 to 8 in 11 innings.

The Colonels fell, 3 to 1, before the Millers in their first go and lost the second game, 5 to 4, although rolling up 14 hits to Minneapolis' nine.

The Red Birds scored 19 hits to the Brewers 15 in an elongated game featuring sloppy fielding. Toledo defeated the Kansas City Blues, 7 to 4, in eight innings before the play was called to allow the Mud Hens to catch a train.

Wet grounds postponed Indianapolis at St. Paul.

WILLIAMSPORT WINS 7-2 AS LEAGUE PLAY RESUMES

Play was resumed in the Night softball league Tuesday night in Ted Lewis park with Williamsport beating Coca-Cola 7-2.

Easter pitched for the winners while Smith and Hill worked for Coca-Cola.

Wednesday night Richards Impement and Stansbury-Stout are scheduled. Thursday Circle City opposes Purina. Two of the several postponed games probably will be played Friday night.

NEWS Behind the NEWS

But these areas, all of them, are in our sphere of democratic influence, and therefore the most favorable sections of the continent. The Russians have everything else in their lap (except possibly Greece, which is held on one knee, so-to-speak) and everything the Russians have is completely blacked out from the rest of the wide world.

Nothing valid or penetrating is known by us of Yugoslavia, Romania, Bulgaria, Austria, or Czechoslovakia, except that Stalin is there setting up the kind of governments he wants, and one other confirmed fact—all anti-Communist opposition is being liquidated.

The Polish issue, which we discuss so extensively, is a minor matter as compared with this whole of middle and southeastern Europe, which is already operating on a Russian axis. By a trade treaty with Romania, Russia has taken the full measure of Romanian economy. Of economic, political or any other conditions in these nations, however, we know only what the Soviet propaganda censorship gives out. They are just the same as Soviet territory today as far as we are concerned—and perhaps as far as their people are concerned.

If conditions are as bad as they are known to be in our end of Europe, it would be unreasonable not to suppose that they are twice as bad in the unknown poorer end.

So when one of the senators said he feared from his trip all Europe was sweeping toward Communism or state socialism, he was speaking from the above-mentioned facts.

Many courses of probable action are being discussed. Anglo-French relations certainly need to be fixed at once. Reapproachment between De Gaulle and Churchill is called for. More intelligent and earnest American leadership to back the people in Europe who like our way of life (which was their historic way) is needed.

A food conference of all the Allied nations also seems possible. We cannot do anything important on this in the present crisis in our own larder, but Canada, Australia, Latin America and other nations have food. There is no starvation in Europe yet, but there may be this coming Winter. In fact, Winter is likely also to be the critical political time.

If the inroads of despair can be held back until this critical coming period is passed, a few of the senators have an idea the problem of Europe may possibly be worked out.

Wyoming's state highway chairman, J. R. Bromley, estimates that the postwar highway system in Wyoming will be worth approximately $100,000,000.

Out of 103 collegiate institutions in California, only 25 of them grant degrees. Ohio has approximately 64 collegiate institutions and 44 of them grant degrees.

The State of California has 103 so-called colleges or universities. Out of this number, 50 of them are junior colleges.

COLONELS KEEP LEAD; BREWERS MARGIN BIRDS

By United Press

Louisville hung on to its newly won position as American Association league leader today after dropping both ends of a double-header with Minneapolis as Milwaukee clung to second place by nosing out Columbus, 9 to 8 in 11 innings.

The Colonels fell, 3 to 1, before the Brewers in their first go and lost the second game, 5 to 4, although rolling up 14 hits to Minneapolis' nine.

The Red Birds scored 19 hits to the Brewers 15 in an elongated game featuring sloppy fielding.

Toledo defeated the Kansas City Blues, 7 to 4, in eight innings before the play was called to allow the Mud Hens to catch a train.

Wet grounds postponed Indianapolis at St. Paul.

WILLIAMSPORT WINS 7-2 AS LEAGUE PLAY RESUMES

Play was resumed in the Night softball league Tuesday night in Ted Lewis park with Williamsport beating Coca-Cola 7-2.

Easter pitched for the winners while Smith and Hill worked for Coca-Cola.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

John Baker, the Metropolitan Opera baritone, starred on "Steel Horizons" Sundays, is a regular member of the network's New York war bond troupe. He joins in the tenth out-of-town bond rally Wednesday, at the Playhouse Theatre, Bayside, L. I. Incidentally, "Steel Horizons," with Baker continuing as star, moves from New York to Pittsburgh, home of the sponsor, and will broadcast from there for the remainder of the summer starting July 1. On that date, Betty Ellen Morris, soprano, and a vocal chorus become new features on the series.

Albert Sack's star is in the ascendancy. He has just been signed as orchestra conductor on the new "Eulalia" series which starts on Monday, July 2, with Marlin Hurt, occupying the first half hour of the vacationing "Radio Theatre." He also was selected to handle the baton for the audition recording of the extravagant Frank Morgan show, plattered this week for Fall sponsor consideration.

Gloria Blondell and Carleton Young, co-stars on the "Hollywood Mystery Time" program since the inception of the series, will bow out of the cast with the June 24 broadcast. Replacement of the pair has not yet been set.

Sixty per cent of the total tonnage of cattle, hogs, and sheep arrived at market terminals by truck in 1944. This record haul was 10.2 million tons of livestock. The Corn Belt Farm Dailies, livestock industry publications, report that about one million more tons were truck-hauled, despite wartime handicaps, than in 1943.

CITY GARBAGE PLAN DELAYED

Only 156 Subscribers Sign; Council Asked To Raise Police Force Pay

Circleville city council, in a better than two hour session, Tuesday evening, passed one resolution and referred three other measures to committee until the next session. Three members of the council, T. W. White, George L. Crites and Boyd Horn, were excused by the other members of the council.

Vaden Couch, Junior Chamber of Commerce representative, reported on the progress of the Jaycee sponsored garbage collection solicitation campaign. He told council members that they had 156 pledges and $913 paid into the collection fund. One section of the city, he said had not been canvassed.

City solicitor Joseph W. Adkins, advised Mr. Couch that there were not enough persons interested in the campaign to insure its success. Mr. Adkins said that there would have to be at least $5,000 in subscriptions for the city to be able to hire men and purchase equipment for garbage collection for one year. This would require approximately 463 subscribers to the city sponsored garbage collection system.

Mr. Couch and Mr. Helvering are making arrangements to see what can be achieved through the use of a private garbage collector.

The resolution, which was made originally at the last meeting, to purchase $10,000 in War Bonds, series F, in $1,000 denominations, was passed by the four council members Tuesday evening. The bonds are to be used for the city sewage disposal fund.

An ordinance to establish rates for the employment of crane and bulldozer operators and equipment was referred to the service committee until the next meeting.

Police Chief W. E. McCrady requested by letter that Council raise the wages of the personnel in the police department from 50 to 60 cents an hour and allow the men one day off each week with pay. Chief McCrady stated in his letter that his men were dissatisfied and were seeking other jobs. One of his men, he wrote, had quit last week. He also stated that it was hard to replace the men who quit because of the low

Balances in city funds as of June 19 were: general fund, $19,583.61; sewage disposal fund, $12,436.32; library, $10,754.88; auto street repair, $8,302.94; gasoline tax, $872.92, and hospital fund, $4,561.11.

The report of the park commission was read to the council. The commission spent a total of $430.76 for labor and materials. This left a deficit in the funds of the park of $80.76 because the council had only appropriated $350 for the park this Spring. The commission estimated that it would take about $600.76 for the operation of the park the rest of the season.

The commission had a new shelter house erected at a cost of $4,250.00. They had $3,782.81 in their funds for the purpose of building the shelter house. They have a deficit of $467.19 in the shelter house account.

They spent $1,061.00 for the night softball field, including lights. The sale of the Memorial Day Booster tickets brought $1,225. The lights and other expenses were paid for out of the ticket sale. The balance in the ticket sale fund will be applied on the cost of the shelter house.

The commission report disclosed that so far this season park events included the county softball tournament, won by Ashville; a 3,000 person gathering opening the park season Memorial Day, night softball games scheduled five nights a week. About 500 persons attend the games each night.

There are several events already scheduled for the remainder of the season. Among them are The Infantry Show, park plan dancing, Columbus girls softball games, boys all-star against an outstanding Columbus boys team.

Robert G. Colville, treasurer of the park commission, asked that the city council appropriate $650 for rest-of-the-season expenses.

An ordinance to establish rates for the employment of crane and bulldozer operators and equipment was referred to the service committee until the next meeting.
